

The Roman Game of Rota.

- The Roman Game of Rota.
- Rota means wheel and this game is played in the same way as noughts and crosses.
- Each player has 3 game pieces which can be counters, beads or small stones.
- Players take it in turns to put their counters on any line in the circle including the middle.
- Once all 3 pieces are on the board, players can move their pieces from line to line, but only to a line next to the one that they're on.
- The player who gets three in a row first is the winner.
- Three in a row around the edge of the circle counts as well as three in a row crossing the centre.
